Bristol Community College's annual student art exhibition features works by students enrolled in the college's art and design programs.

Beginning in 2005, the show's juried format provides students the opportunity to engage in the professional practice of preparing works for entry into an exhibition. Students are encouraged to submit for consideration up to four works made between April 2018 and April 2019.

Each year around 200 works are submitted and the jurors have the exciting challenge to bring that number down to about 75 pieces. The resulting exhibition reflects the strength, breadth, and diversity of the programs.
